<FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS>

What Is Location Based Research?

Basically, anything you need to know about how a place ticks, its population or workforce, local infrastructure and available property.

Knowledge or data relating to a business or community overlaid onto a geographic element can provide powerful analysis that might not have been obvious before. We developed out of an economic development and business consultancy background. This provides us with both a rigorous toolkit and the ability to cut to the immediate needs of clients in a common sense manner.

Where Do You Work?

Previous work ranges from Aberdeen to Plymouth and everywhere in between.

So Who Uses Your Services?

To make it simple we have three broad client types; forward thinking businesses needing to know about existing or future operating locations, property clients who wish to test or demonstrate the viability of a location or development and organisations working to promote and sustain inward investment and other economic activity in their area.

What Makes East West Different?

Our feet are firmly planted in the real world! We observe travel to work behaviour to or around a location for example and all analysis is prepared on the basis of the actual catchment not an administrative area that provides 'big numbers'. There are no surprises downstream of our advice.

What Can You Do For Me?

That's an easy one - call us so we can discuss it with you!
